This document is a financial promotion for the FSSA China Focus Fund in the EEA and elsewhere where lawful. Investing involves certain risks including:

- The value of investments and any income from them may go down as well as up and are not guaranteed. Investors may get back substantially less than the original amount invested.
- Currency risk: The Fund invests in assets which are denominated in other currencies; changes in exchange rates will affect the value of the Fund and could create losses. Performance review

In the past 12 months, key contributors included ACM Research, which reported strong earnings results, with revenue and net profit significantly ahead of estimates due to improved product mix and therefore wider margins. Mediatek rose on signs of recovering end-demand for smartphones. The company, which designs integrated circuits on semiconductor chips, is benefiting from the use of artificial intelligence in its processes, as it can optimise performance and shorten the chip development time.

On the negative side, JD.com fell on concerns about slowing sales growth and rising competition. We think the franchise is still solid, consumer mindshare is strong (especially among mid to high income groups) and valuations are very attractive. China Mengniu Dairy has been affected by weak consumer demand as China's economic recovery remains fragile. In the long run we continue to believe it should benefit from the "premiumisation trend", with its deluxe offerings, cheese, ice cream, and sports and elderly nutrition.

Calendar year performance (% in USD) to 31 December 2023

These figures refer to the past. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results. For investors based in countries with currencies other than USD, the return may increase or decrease as a result of currency fluctuations. Since inception performance figures have been calculated from 30 January 2008. All performance data for the FSSA China Focus Fund Class I (Accumulation) USD as at 31 December 2023. Source for fund - Lipper IM / First Sentier Investors (UK) Funds Limited. Performance data is calculated on a net basis by deducting fees incurred at fund level (e.g. the management fee and other fund expenses), save that it does not take account of initial charges or switching fees (if any). Income reinvested is included on a net of tax basis. Source for benchmark - MSCI, income reinvested net of tax.

Portfolio review

New positions over the quarter included Haitian International, the global market leader in plastic injection molding machines. The company's long-term track record is decent, and strong recent orders suggest that they are emerging from an industry down-cycle. We believe continued domestic market share gains, product upgrades, and overseas expansion (where their market share is still small) could fuel future growth.

We sold Weichai Power to raise cash for better ideas elsewhere.

Stock spotlight

Tencent is the largest social media network and online gaming company in China, with growing businesses in online advertising, cloud services and e-payments/e-commerce. Founded in 1998 by Pony Ma, who remains the CEO and a significant shareholder, Tencent's DNA is focused on experimentation and constantly trying out new things. Alongside the gaming business, which took off in the middle of the 2000s, Tencent's original PC-based chat program "QQ" made the transition to smartphones early on and the company used that experience in 2011 to develop Weixin (WeChat in English).

WeChat is widely considered the world's first "Super App" and is now an integrated part of daily life for more than 1.2bn users. Tencent took advantage of the tremendous network effects created by its messaging app to develop other features on top of it for monetisation. WeChat not only facilitates messaging, but also has a social media app (Moments), a payment app (WeChat Pay) and multiple other services (such as ride hailing, commerce, streaming etc), which together make up an ecosystem with incredibly strong network effects. This results in high barriers to entry that protect its profit pool.

The other key to Tencent's success is related to capital allocation. With the growing dominance of WeChat, Tencent also started to gain notable insights into user preferences. Tencent could spot new trends early and leverage this insight to fund the most promising operators. Early and subsequently very profitable investments in the likes of JD.com, Meituan, Pinduoduo and Kuaishou are testament to that. The benefits also worked two ways, as the investment by Tencent would often ensure a preferential position for these companies in its ecosystem, and thus, greatly enhance the chances of success. This made Tencent the preferred investor by many start-ups and greatly contributed to the value accretion over the years.

We expect Tencent's gaming business to recover domestically with the government's resumption of new game licenses. The ambition to build a global gaming franchise will also gradually bear fruit. We also foresee decent growth for Tencent's advertising business, driven by the recent monetisation of Weixin's short video function and the recovery of advertising demand. Cloud and fintech could also become major growth engines in the mid-to-long term. Putting it all together, we believe Tencent can achieve a 10-15% growth rate for the next 3-5 years.

Outlook

Investing in China's dynamic market comes with an evolving set of challenges and opportunities. Today, the key challenges include shifts in geopolitics, policy priorities and demographics. In the shorter term, weak consumer confidence and rising unemployment have been additional areas of concern. But, as long-term investors, we also see an attractive opportunity set in a unique market. We have been impressed by the improving quality of Chinese companies and management over the years and we believe there is room for industry leaders to continue to deliver attractive returns in a maturing economy.

As always, we seek to invest in quality companies with proven management, dominant franchises and conservative financials. Market downturns provide us with attractive opportunities to accumulate quality companies at lower prices – and we stand by the belief that the best time to buy is when things appear gloomy and valuations are undemanding. We have taken the opportunity to build up some of the smaller positions in the portfolio, while also adding on weakness to our high conviction and core long-term holdings.

Our long-term investment themes:

- Dominant consumer franchises which have an edge in brand, distribution and innovation.
- The rise in healthcare spending, due to increasing incomes and healthy consumer choices.
- Beneficiaries of a smarter, more connected world.
- An ageing population and the growing trend of automation.
- Globally competitive exporters with a growing international business.
